The autonomic nervous system is at the heart of daily living, powerfully shaping experiences of safety and influencing the capacity for connection. Through the organizing principles of hierarchy, neuroception and co-regulation, Polyvagal Theory has revolutionized our understanding of how this system works. Guided by Polyvagal Theory, we have a new appreciation of the ways experience shapes the nervous system and of the pathways that lead to healing. With this updated map of the autonomic circuits of connection, mobilization, and collapse, we have practical ways to effectively help clients identify and interrupt patterns of protection, and strategies to shape their systems toward the regulated state of safety and connection that is necessary for successful treatment. In the Foundations of Polyvagal Practice Part I workshop participants will explore Polyvagal Theory by learning the language of the nervous system as they map their own autonomic pathways and discover how to become a regulated and regulating resource for clients. Participants will learn how to bring the power of Polyvagal Theory into clinical work with practices designed to reliably help clients re-shape their systems and re-write the stories that are carried in their autonomic pathways.

Topics Covered:
- The organizing principles of Polyvagal Theory
- How to create autonomic maps and use them as a guide in treatment
- Skills to track habitual response patterns
- Ways to build individual and interactive resources to shape the nervous system toward connection
- Practices that engage the co-regulating pathways of the social engagement system
- Working with therapeutic rupture and repair
- Beginning techniques to reshape the autonomic nervous system
- How to introduce a Polyvagal approach into clinical practice

This workshop is required for participants who want to register for Deepening the Rhythm of Regulation: Foundations of Polyvagal Informed Practice Part II.

ABOUT DEB DANA, LCSW
Deb is a clinician, consultant and author specializing in complex trauma. Her work is focused on using the lens of Polyvagal Theory to understand and resolve the impact of trauma in our lives. Deb’s work shows how an understanding of Polyvagal Theory applies to relationships, mental health, and trauma and how we can use an understanding of the organizing principles of Polyvagal Theory to change the ways we navigate our daily lives.

Deb can be contacted via her website: www.rhythmofregulation.com
This is a hybrid course combining recorded modules, readings, and live online sessions. Participants are responsible for watching the videos and reading the assigned material prior to each live session, and must be present for the live sessions. Deb's Senior Trainers will conduct the live sessions which will include didactic presentations, experiential practice, role play, and Q&A. Two Foundations Consultants make up the rest of the training team supporting participants' learning through monthly small group consultation. Along with reviewing the written and recorded material, participants will be asked to complete practice assignments between training dates as a way to gain confidence and expertise. In addition to Deb's presence throughout the training through the recorded content, Deb will offer a 90-minute Q&A session during the series and join the Module 5 live online session.

Participants are required to watch 15 hours of recorded teaching videos, attend a live online Introductory session and five live online modules, and successfully complete post-tests between the modules. The full training group of 32 participants will be divided as follows:

GROUPS OF 16

The large group will be divided into two groups of sixteen who will each be assigned a Consultant as the point person for the duration of the training. The groups of 16 will:

- Meet with one of the Trainers for a 90-minute practice session between modules 1 & 2
- Meet with their Consultant for a 90-minute practice session between modules 2 & 4
- Meet with one of the Trainers for a 90-minute practice session between modules 4 & 5

GROUPS OF 4

The groups of 16 will be divided into groups of four to create smaller Consultation Groups. Each Consultation Group will:

- Have the opportunity for four 1-hour consultations: two with each Consultant so they can benefit from the particular expertise of both Consultants during the training.

GROUPS OF 2

Each participant will be paired with another participant in a Polyvagal Partnership.

- Your Polyvagal Partner is someone to connect with throughout the training to discuss material, share personal and professional experiences through this new lens, practice new skills, and experiment with all things Polyvagal.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

At the end of this workshop participants will be able to:

1. Explain the organizing principles of Polyvagal Theory
2. Describe Polyvagal Theory in client friendly language
3. Explain the hierarchy of autonomic response
4. Discuss ways neuroception activates autonomic state shifts
5. Review the biological need for co-regulation
6. Summarize the function of the vagal brake
7. Conduct exercises with clients designed to strengthen the vagal brake
8. Evaluate client experiences of mobilization, disconnection, and engagement through the lens of Polyvagal Theory
9. Summarize the common body responses, thoughts, feelings, and actions for each autonomic state
10. Complete the basic mapping sequence with clients
11. Practice co-regulating actions with clients and evaluate response
12. Identify the impact of autonomic state on behaviors, beliefs, and relationships
13. Utilize skills to recognize and regulate patterns of autonomic response
14. Apply practices to engage individual elements of the social engagement system
15. Utilize skills using sound, movement, and breath to increase autonomic flexibility
16. Utilize autonomic state/state changes to identify moments of therapeutic rupture
17. Demonstrate how to repair a rupture and create a return to co-regulation
18. Describe the basic elements of a polyvagal guided session
19. Plan how to incorporate a polyvagal approach into their clinical practice
20. Formulate clinical cases through the lens of Polyvagal Theory
21. Summarize ethical considerations of polyvagal informed clinical work
ADDITIONAL COURSE DETAILS

- This hybrid training has been designed as a combination of recorded modules and live, online experiences.
- Resources include a large selection of audio-visual and written material which can be viewed on demand and referred to throughout the training. Videos will be available to participants for six weeks after the course ends. The Foundations Video Library can be purchased ($150) for lifetime access at rhythmofregulation.com
- The combined format of live online and recorded content is organized into five monthly modules. Each module is made up of three hours of video presentations from Deb Dana, and one three-hour live online session led by two of her Senior Trainers. All the videos are of Deb Dana teaching the principles of Polyvagal Informed practice and demonstrating the application of skills.
- There is a significant level of interactivity between modules where participants will join with their Polyvagal Partner, Foundations Trainers and Consultants, and engage with small Consultation Groups.

TARGET AUDIENCE

Clinicians taking this workshop will gain a basic understanding of Polyvagal principles and learn specific ways to bring a Polyvagal lens to clinical work.

This program is appropriate for all licensed clinicians including social workers, psychologists and clinical counselors. As an entry level training, no prior experience with Polyvagal Theory is required.

The training focuses on both participant’s understanding of their own autonomic responses and application with clients. The exercises are geared towards working in a clinical setting.

Participants from all the helping professions are welcome and those who are not from a traditional clinical licensure program are encouraged to speak with a trainer before registering.
